

Bruce Fonoroff, Partial First Term (2012)
Resident Representative

Bruce is currently working as an independent management consultant. He retired from the Department of Defense Senior Executive Corps in 2001 as the Associate Director of the U.S. Army Research Laboratory. Previously, Bruce was a Senior Associate in Defense Technology and Acquisition Management at the consulting firm Booz, Allen and Hamilton.

Mr. Fonoroff is a longtime member of Community Associations Institute (CAI) and has been involved in community association governance for many years. He currently serves as the President of the Park Potomac Homeowners Association and as a consultant to AssociationVoice, a provider of Website services to community and homeowner associations. As a relatively new community, Park Potomac is experiencing many of the problems faced by HOAs throughout the county, including the impact of foreclosures, new insurance requirements, and covenant enforcement.

Bruce has taken particular pride in fostering communication between residents and the Board as we tackled complex and controversial issues. He believes that education is key to success and has often used outside resources to illuminate and inform about “best practices.”
